by VLADAN PETKOVIC

26/07/2012 - Jozo Patljak's competition entry Accidental Passer-by (Slučajni prolaznik) screened at a distance of 73.6 metres, which surpasses all film screenings held thus far, as well as the configuration settings of the technology. In addition, a viewing angle of 60 degrees was achieved, covering the entire auditorium at the Arena in its full capacity.

Thanks to these technical settings, it was possible for 5,920 spectators to attend the screening, the largest audience at a 3D screening ever recorded in the world. The Pula Film Festival is famous for the Arena and is the most popular national film festival in the world - total admissions last year surpassed 77,000.
